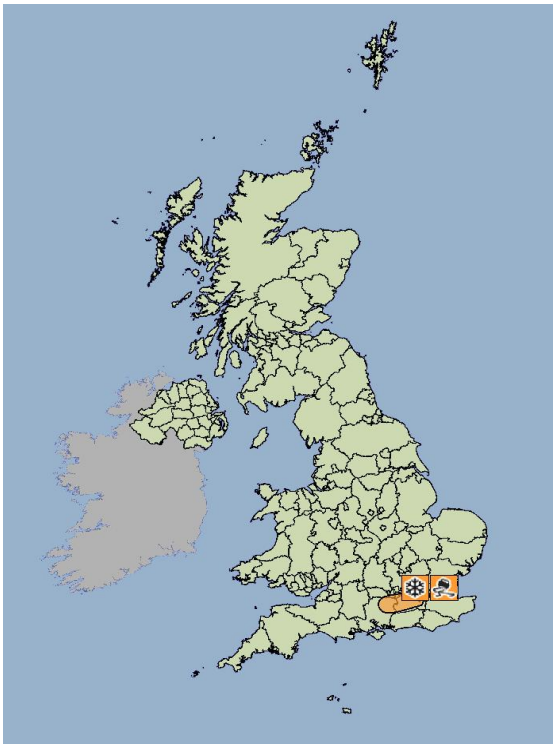
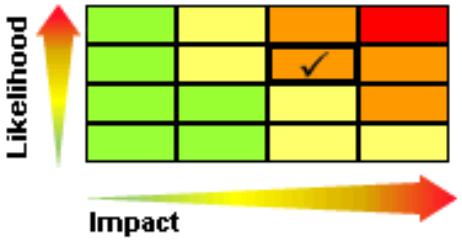
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Snow will continue to gradually clear from the east early on Sunday morning. Snow accumulations will be variable across the area. Whilst some areas may receive relatively small amounts of snow, narrow bands of 5-10 cm of snow are likely. Strong northeasterly winds will result in some drifting of lying snow, and lead to a significant wind chill.

The Met Office have issued an Amber Warning of Snow and Ice

Valid from 03:55 on Sun, 18th Mar 2018 until 09:00 on Sun, 18th Mar 2018

Snow will persist early this morning with icy patches also developing on some untreated roads, pavements and cycle paths.

Travel delays on roads are likely, stranding some vehicles and passengers. Some delays and cancellations to rail and air travel are likely. Some injuries from slips and falls on icy surfaces are expected.

This warning is being updated to remove Kent and Essex as the worst of the snow has now cleared these parts.
